The Museum of Fine Arts St. Petersburg's original architecture has a wonderful historical character, while the new wing speaks to a contemporary style—a meaningful marriage of then and now that makes the museum an idyllic wedding venue. The picturesque grounds whet the appetite for all of the history and beauty that lies within. An impressive permanent collection and ever-changing special exhibitions provide an engaging backdrop, inviting guests to experience the art and cultural artifacts of other times and places. Weddings may be held in a variety of settings, from a two-story modern conservatory to an elegant ballroom, lush outdoor spaces to more intimate indoor settings with views of the bay.

"The big day is all about the two of you."

Susan Robertson
